

Thanks for focusing on Gujarat's achievements

It was refreshing to see an honest and well thought out comparative analysis of economic progress within India. Performing an objective analysis of different states based on their socio-economic policies is anathema to followers of socialist ideology in India.

Sadly, in recent times, Western media pundits also have fallen into the trap of echoing Islamic fundamentalists and India's "loony left," who are adept at deception and maligning those who threaten their interests. Narendra Modi has allowed Gujarat to flourish; in doing so, he has alienated special interest groups who despise merit and survive based on corruption and special privileges.

Kudos to the Financial Post and the Hindu Conference of Canada for revealing the greatest success story in the developing world.
