

Sikhism vs. Hinduism

National Post Published: Monday, December 21, 2009

Jagtaran Singh states that Sikhism was formed to address alleged "inequalities" imposed by the Hindu caste system. He also mentions the subservient role of women.

Last May, dozens were injured and a Sikh guru was killed in Austria after higher Sikh castes attacked untouchables. This was followed by widespread Sikh inter-caste rioting in Punjab, India.

Out of the dozens of Hindu temples across North America, Europe, and India, there has not been one single case of such inter-caste conflict.

Before tossing stones at other faiths, Mr. Singh should make sure he isn't residing in a glass house himself.

Ron Banerjee, director, Canadian Hindu Advocacy, Toronto.